in Confederate Currency and Bonds can be seen piled in front of the Criswell's of Pass-a-Grille, Florida. Reputed to be the World's Richest men (In Confederate Funds) these two "Southern Colonels", are a familiar sight at Conventions and Club meetings throughout the country, and it is seldom they do not have at least a few Rare Pieces of Confederate money to show around.

It was approximately fourteen years ago that The Colonels Criswell received their first hoard of Confederate money, it being found in part of their family estate. From that time on, their love of Currency has increased daily, consummating in their presenting to the World a series of books which describe and illustrate the money used in that by-gone era that they love so well.

The Criswell's are continually called upon to address civic, professional, historical and educational groups on Confederate & Southern State Currency, and invariably they are enthusiastically received by record-breaking audiences.

Particularly of interest are the selected portions of The Criswell Collections shown at every appearance. Criswell's Special State Displays are loaned out to Banks and Historical or Educational groups for limited exhibition and this feature has become so popular that requests are made long in advance for their use.

Certainly all the readers will join me in wishing the Colonels Criswell the best of luck, in their promotion of the Currency of the South, especially so, as we approach the Centennial year for the issuance of the first Confederate Money.

LUCKY THIRTEEN

NEW YORK—A printer's error that is worth about $850 to rare money collectors has turned up in the New York area. It's a $10 bill on one side and $1 note on the other. The Chase Manhattan Bank says four others like it turned up about two years ago. Collectors are looking for 13 more, because U.S. currency is printed in sheets of 18 notes.

RICHARD KENNEY PASSES AWAY

Noted Numismatist died suddenly of a heart attack recently. He was 39 years of age, and one of the outstanding numismatists of the country.

Richard Kenney was associated with Jame's Incorp. a number of years, and frequently wrote the editor of his opinions on coins.

I am sure D. W. Karp, President of Jame's Incorp. and all who associated with Mr. Kenney of the coin world will miss him.

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

About Your "Flying Eaglet"

I gather there are some readers who have contemplated putting forth a coin magazine. Also others might like to know what happens to their copy when it reaches our office.

Here is an outline of the general procedure on the publishing of our "Eaglet".

Some 40 to 60 pieces of mail are received daily, consisting of subscriptions, ad copy, sample inquiries, and correspondence.

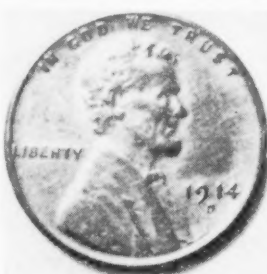

Through our personal contact, mail, research, your comments and suggestions, we outline our future issues.

Ad copies are checked over and layed out for spacing, which usually is close to the deadline. This is a general nemesis editors must cope with each issue. Early copy would be less apt to have errors, which would make any editor happy. As early as possible copy is brought to the printers for typesetting. This is done with a large Linotype, a machine similar to the every day typewriter. It presses out numbers, words and signs on alloyed lead slugs one-half inch to width of a page. Proof impressions are made for the proof reader and the editor to check over for errors, layout, etc. The copy is then ready for corrections and the press. Cuts of photos are made at the engravers, which takes three to ten days service. The presses then roll and some 10,000 sheets are ready for folding, collating and finally delivery. This is not all, the new issue is then put through the addressograph. This machine holds the name and address plates of our subscribers, its impression is put on the top of the issue. The new issue is then segregated by states, possessions, and foreign countries. They are counted and tied into bundles ready for the post office and on its journey to you.

A quantity is set aside for requests of sample copies.

So there you have an idea of how your copy of the "Flying Eaglet" is set up. If you noted Criswell's color ad display in the February issue, this sheet was run three times through the press for its three colored page.

YOUR EDITOR

This One Could Fool You!

While buying a batch lot of coins from a collector, I was surprised to see the scarce 1914-D cent X.F. among the lot. They are seldom offered for sale. Being somewhat curious, I decided to check it further. To my surprise and also to the sellers, I found it to be an excellent phoney. It was an altered 1944-D. The front part of the first 4 was eliminated, leaving a 1 and a wider space than usual between the 9 and 1. Checking further for an altered date. As of 1918 the initials V.D.-B. were restored at the rim beneath Lincoln's shoulder. Only by using a strong glass can this be seen. All Lincolns 1918 to date have these initials. Fortunately, the seller did not pay very much for it. Someone could have very well paid top price for it, of some $60.00.

Check your coins carefully!

LETTERS OF COMMENT

Dear Sir:

While I am going to school, I can afford to subscribe to only one coin journal. "The Flying Eaglet" is my choice.

D. MAYER
Pittsburgh, Penna.

Dear Sir:

I have found in circulation a 1935 dime V.F. with the E of word one appearing as an F. Is this common or not?
P.S. I enjoy your magazine so much, that when my subscription is up I will subscribe for 3 more years. It is one of the best.

COSMO COLANDRO
Brooklyn, N. Y.

Editor's Note: This dime variety is common and this usually happens when part of the die has some filling in the recess.

Dear Sir:

Enclosed is clipping I thought would be of interest to our readers. It seems that the rarest bank notes printed by the Confederacy are those issued at Montgomery, Alabama before it moved to Richmond, Virginia in July 1861. Mainly the $1,000 bill of Jackson and Calhoun worth about $250.00 to a collector.

Do you happen to have a stack of these in your attic?

RARE 50¢ DIME FOUND

A dime with a 50¢ piece impression was found recently by the proud owner Kenneth Shed-den who operates a stamp and coin shop at 19-A North Montgomery Street, Trenton, N. J.

Kenneth describes the coin as follows: It is a dime planchet.
It was processed by error on a top of a half dollar planchet, the stamp being heavy pressed the dime the size of a quarter. The results a dime the size of a quarter, obverse and reverse of a Franklin half dollar, thin and heavy as a dime.

This mint error was found in a bag of 1954-P halves.

Maybe Kenneth can supply us with a photo of this rare item for our next issue.

SCOUTING VIA SCUBA

In plain language skin diving. Raoul Rose of 593 South 11th St. Newark, N. J. is shown ready to explore under water.

Raoul, a subscriber, recently visited me. While talking coins he mentioned his other hobby skin diving. He often gets calls to retrieve lost propellers, motors and lost boats. This brought to mind, some few years ago of some coins found along the bathing shores of Kingsburg and Keyport. The New Jersey coast is known to have been a haven for these old galleons. Evidently the storms washed to shore some coins and old relics. For a time it seemed like another gold rush, as gold coins were being dug up by curious seekers. Raoul use to teach the art of skin diving at the Orange Y.M.C.A. in N. J.

Here's hoping Raoul strikes a chest full of Gold.
